Equal Employment Opportunity - Our values embrace the notion of diversity and equal employment opportunity. As VJC Overseas highly values equality and meritocracy, we are committed to an employment environment that is free from all illegal aspects.

Discrimination - We always employ, retain, promote, terminate and otherwise treat all employees and job applicants based on merit, qualifications, skills and aptitude to serve the respective role.

Competence and Talent - We apply this policy without regard to any individual's gender, race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, pregnancy, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, marital or family status, veteran status, medical condition, disability or political belief.

Harassment - Harassment has no place at VJC Overseas. We do not tolerate any kind of sexual harassment or harassment based on gender, race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, pregnancy, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, marital or family status, veteran status, medical condition, disability or political belief; whether it's verbal, physical or visual harassment, or a form of retaliation for any complaint of harassment. All new employees receive VJC Overseas detailed and are expected to read and abide by it.

Confidentiality, Security and Protection of the Company's Intellectual Property - Every employee has a duty to respect the confidentiality of the company's information and the information of our suppliers, associated bodies and customers. In addition, you must refrain from using any confidential information belonging to former employees. We are only to access, use and disclose confidential information which is necessary for us to have in the course of employees or contractors at VJC Overseas, unless it is necessary for those employees or contractors to have such confidential information in the course of their duties.

We also have a duty to protect the Company's intellectual property and other business assets. We take the security of our intellectual property, business systems and Company property very seriously. Good security, working practices and procedures for Company property, in all its forms, is critical in protecting the intellectual property development that fuels our Company's growth, the livelihood of our employees, and our shareholders' investments. Company files, personal computers, networks, software, internet access, internet browser programs, email, voice mail and other business equipment (e.g., desks and cabinets) and resources which are provided for business use are the exclusive property of the Company. Misuse of such Company property is not tolerated.

Many employees associated to VJC Overseas. are creative by nature and want to continue their creative activities outside of work. It is mandatory for such employees to receive a written permission from the Company's Vice President for his or her organization before developing, outside of Company, any intellectual property that is or may be related to our current or potential business. Please speak to your Human Resources representative to assist in following procedures regarding permissions.

These and other obligations relating to confidentiality, security and the Company's intellectual property can be found in your New Hire Agreement.

External Communications - Occasionally, VJC Overseas employees are contacted by outside sources requesting information about company matters, including Company products and financial information, information regarding current of former employees, Company projects, and/or other workplace issues. In order to avoid disclosing inaccurate, incomplete, confidential or proprietary information, on being contacted by any outside source for any information about the Company, you should decline to comment and immediately contact General Manager of VJC Overseas and give all the details.

Substance Abuse:

- Any use of illegal drugs by employees, visitors or contractors at Company premises at any time of day or night or at any Company's sponsored event is prohibited.

- Employees shall not attempt to perform work for VJC Overseas while under the influence of any illegal drug. An employee who must take a legal drug (e.g., prescription medication) due to a physical or mental disability is required to discuss the situation with HR if there is a chance that the drug may influence work performance or behavior at work.

Employees shall not attempt to perform work for the Company under influence of alcohol.

Violence - Violence of any kind is unacceptable at the workplace, at a Company sponsored event, or during any time you are representing on behalf of VJC Overseas. This includes actual physical conduct as well as threats, intimidation and portrayals of violence in pictures or written materials (except for legitimate business purposes). Furthermore, weapons are prohibited inside the Company property and while off site conducting Company business.

Conflicts of Interest - Integrity is one of our ACTION values, and we need to ensure that all of our business interactions reflect the importance we place on this particular value. The Conflict of Interest policy sets minimum guidelines within which we all must act to maintain integrity in the work we do.

As a representative of VJC Overseas, it is important that we use good judgment in how we conduct ourselves in the marketplace. Towards this end, we are expected to avoid any activity that creates an actual or potential conflict of interest (i.e., any situation in which our actions or loyalties are divided between personal interest and Company interests, or between Company's interest and those of another. If uncertain of whether a conflict exists, you should consult your supervisor immediately. The following activities are some examples of conflicts of interest, which are prohibited for all employees associated with VJC Overseas, including executive officers) without prior written approval from a member of your management chain or, in the case of executive officers, approval by the Board of Directors:

- Owning, operating, acting as a Director for or being employed as an employee or consultant by any business that competes, directly or indirectly, with VJC Overseas or that is related to the business of VJC Overseas.

- Engaging in any business transaction with VJC Overseas except in connection with our regular employee programs.

- Entering into a new, or significantly expanding an existing, direct or indirect personal financial relationship with a competitor, customer, or supplier; however, no conflict will exist in the case of ownership of less than 1 percent of the publicly traded stock of a corporation. Any significant expansion of an existing financial relationship will require a separate, prior written approval.

- Awarding a contract or entering into a financial transaction on behalf of the Company (or encouraging other employees to do so) with a family member or someone with whom you have a significant personal or financial relationship.

- Engaging in any other employment or extensive personal projects during work hours, or using the Company's property in other employment.

- Soliciting company's employees, vendors, or customers to purchase goods or services of any kind for purposes not related to our business, or to make contributions to any organizations or in support of any outside VJC Overseas authorized causes.

- Soliciting or entering into any business or financial transaction with an employee whom you supervise, either directly or indirectly.

In addition to the above activities that require prior written approval, employees associated with VJC Overseas (including executive officers) are required to promptly notify their Manager or Supervisor of any of the following events:

- Soliciting or entering into a romantic relationship, or having a family relationship, with an employee whom you either supervise, directly or indirectly, have influence over career decisions, or have access to sensitive personnel data. This guideline helps to ensure fair treatment and judgment across all employee decisions.

VJC OVERSEAS IMMIGRATION & VISA CONSULTANTS

- Acting as a Director for any for-profit organization (however, acting as a director for a for-profit or non-profit organization that competes, directly or indirectly, with VJC Overseas, or whose business is related to the business of VJC Overseas, is generally discouraged as a conflict of interest and requires prior written approval as discussed above).

Kindly acknowledge & accept the offer.
